MEMORIES OF ROUND-UP

By the JRA National Board

Round-Up - a week of Red Angus cattle, people and places, contests, activities, fun, excitement and friends... Though the theme of Round-Up focuses on the educational and leadership development and opportunities for all who attend, fun and friendship seem to be what most juniors (and the adults who travel along) remember. Members of the JRA National Board share some of their favorite memories...

Amber Leaf, President, Jacobson, Minnesota

My favorite Round-Up memory comes from my very first Round-Up. Round-Up was being held in Montana and I was a little bit nervous because I had no idea what to expect. However, before I knew it I was headed up a mountain with a bunch of laughing kids, carrying my fifty pound suitcase to go to my palace for the night. No - it wasn't the Hilton hotel and resort. It was tee pees that were on top of a mountain at the Leachman Ranch. This was my first impression of Round-Up and from then on it has continued to be one of my favorite Junior Red Angus events.

Megan Johnson - Leadership Director, Nunn, Colorado

The experience is why I attend Round Up. The list is endless when you want to count the reasons to attend. Between visiting colleges and universities, looking at cattle, visiting ranches, and sight seeing there is laughter, jokes, and making friends. The stories you will return home with "At their place..." And "When we were there..." are never-ending. The experience is one of a lifetime. Round-Up is about learning, getting more educated in the cattle industry, but also about having fun and interacting with other junior members. There are activities that we do each Round-Up that are native to the area we attend. So along with getting experience with the Red Angus breed, we get to explore other parts of the country.

Marianne Mendoza - Fund Raising Director, Valley Springs, Colorado

People getting sun burned in the hot California sun after running like crazy people into the freezing Pacific Ocean. Late nights, long bus rides, and dust storms. These are just some of the many memories I have from the four years of Round-Up that I have attended. Not to mention, I have traveled the United States and seen places that I otherwise wouldn't. I have met some of the greatest people during Round-Up and have seen people at their best (and worst) during this week long adventure. Some of these people are now my great friends. So, if you want to join us for a week of cowboyin' - come to Colorado and Wyoming in June to create some memories of your own!!

Amber Boyles - Public Relations Director, Kernersville, North Carolina

It was the summer after my third grade year and I knew I had the meanest 4th grade teacher coming up in the fall. But guess where I got to go? The first time I ever got on an airplane and I was heading clear across the country to Oregon! That's right, my first Round-Up experience was twelve years ago on the third Round-Up ever. Let's just set the time. Betty Grimshaw was the Jr.

Advisor, Will Andras was the National President (who now is married with children), there was NOT a Mushrush signed up for the trip and swimming was on the agenda everyday. It was five days of the time of my life.

Times like that you never forget. We went whale watching in the Pacific Ocean, when I hadn't even been to the coast of North Carolina until ten years later. We went and toured a cheese factory, went horse-back riding on an Indian reservation and froze later on that night sleeping in a teepee. We traveled all across the state of Oregon ranging from the windy coast to what was practically the desert! Back home there are not many people that brand their cattle and at the time I had never seen it done. The best part of the whole trip was when we went to Norstar Cattle Co, and helped the cowboys with branding and vaccinating calves. I waited a little while; while all the "big kids" were doing the work then I asked if I could try. Woohoo! I have never enjoyed getting kicked by a calf as much as I did that day. All the pain goes away when you get to brand a calf for the first time...well for me it did.

By the end of the day I had gotten the swing of things and branded one all by myself. Daddy got in there and was flanking them, and a lot of the kids needed their clothes changed from getting so dirty. The best part was we still had a smile on our face at the end of the day. My favorite Round-Up memory was my first Round-Up trip. The next best thing to that is being the only junior still involved that can tell stories from that far back. Luckily for me, because of Round-Up, I have been able to travel to places like Oregon, Montana and Texas to name a few. Without Red Angus and without this junior program, who knows, I might not have ever gotten out of North Carolina!

JRA JUNIOR SPOTLIGHT

CASEY MUSHRUSH, 1st Vice President, Strong City, Kansas

When I try to pick a favorite memory from Round-up, it's hard to pick out just one. One that comes to mind fairly quickly though is from Round-Up in California. It all started with a long bus ride. We were on our way to the ocean for fun in the sun. The road was very long and winding. Several of the passengers on the bus had decided to drink a lot of water before getting on. After riding on the bus for several hours, they had to use the restroom very very badly. The only problem was that the bus we had didn't have a bathroom. It also didn't help that every time we made a left turn, water spilled from the air conditioner. Between the rushing sound of the water, and the periodic cattle guards, it was all they could do to keep from falling out of their seats from squirming. When we finally got to the beach, it was a mad rush to the bathroom. I still like to bring up the story when talking with the good friends that I have made.

The Top 10 Reasons to Attend the 2007 Round-Up: Wyoming - Cowboy Style!

2007 NATIONAL JUNIOR SHOW - Denver, Colorado

Winter weather ushered in the Red Angus activities during the 2007 National Western Stock Show, Denver, Colorado. The extreme cold, snow and icy road conditions around the country prevented some people from making the trip to Denver and the Junior Stockgrowers Contest was cancelled. But the Red Angus cattle exhibited in the pen shows, Mile High Sale and Junior and Open National Shows represented the breed very well.

The JRA sponsored an evening at the National Western Rodeo for all junior exhibitors on Sunday, January 14.

Junior exhibitors brought an impressive set of heifers to the Mile High City and judge, Tom Harrington from Montana made many positive comments regarding the cattle. National Junior Show exhibitors were: Riley Avery, Redmond, OR; Calli Bayer, Ringle, WI; Ty Bayer, Ringle, WI; Garrett Blanchard, Firebaugh, CA; Ryan Flaming, Hillsboro, KS; Rachel Glascok, Pilot Point, TX; Thomas Glascok, Pilot Point, TX; Ellie Karweik, Hopkins, MI; Amanda Owings, Powell Butte, OR; Jennifer Ringwelski, Marengo, IL; Ryan

Results from the 2007 National Junior Show are in this issue along with the National Open Show Coverage. However, the JRA wants to take this opportunity to thank all the sponsors for the show - with your support, class winners received show halters; Champion Bred and Owned received a director's chair; Grand and Reserve each received show boxes; showmanship winners received show sticks and gift certificates to Sullivan Show Supply. So, to all who sponsored our show - THANKS!!!
