About the Artist...

Jenny Robinson

Artist Biography

Jenny has been drawing horses since she was a young girl, her love for animals inspiring her to learn how to draw and paint them ever since. Working as a veterinary technician, training, showing, and breeding Quarter Horses, and living in the West has been a continuing source of inspiration for her artwork.

Raised in Wyoming, Jenny then spent over a decade in Montana, deep in the heart of ranch and mountain country. Jenny currently resides in northeastern Colorado, where she feels blessed to be surrounded by rich inspiration for her artwork. Her fervor for drawing and painting has immersed her in the world of western art, with a unique combination of realistic and impressionistic portrayal of the horses, dogs, cattle, wildlife, and landscapes, as well as the people who love them, work with them, and rely upon them. Jenny is always striving to learn and improve by continually attending workshops and classes. Her hard work has paid off, allowing her to be accepted into many juried western art shows in the last several years.

She and her partner, Brian Downing, are also involved with Red Angus. He owns and runs Ranches Inc., of Fort Morgan, Colorado, and is very involved with the Red Angus FCCP and produces high quality natural beef.
